The single-family dwelling at 135 Baker Road in Grantsville, Garrett County, MD is not located in an historic district, nor is it considered individually eligible for listing on the National Register of Historic Places.

The single-family dwelling at 135 Baker Road is located in a rural area south of Grantsville in Garrett County, MD. The house is a two-story, three-bay frame dwelling covered with a gable roof. The house is set upon a slightly raised stone foundation, has walls clad with asbestos (?) shingles, and has a slate roof. One-story partly enclosed shed wings extend across the front and rear elevations of the dwelling. The windows are primarily 2/2 with awning sash in the shed wings. The house is typical of the late 19th-century rural domestic building forms of the region and state. The building lacks the architectural distinctiveness and integrity necessary to qualify it for listing on the National Register under Criterion . The property is not known to have associations with persons or events significant to our past, though no research is known to have been done on the history of this property.

Documentation on the property/district is presented in: Review and Compliance Files; June 1997
